

Safeguarding Policy

Purpose

This policy sets out how we, Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd, aim to protect children, young people, and vulnerable adults who receive our services, from harm. This is applied equitably to those who directly use our services and those who may be brought to our attention by proxy of others using our services.

Summary

Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd takes its safeguarding responsibilities seriously. We have a duty of care to safeguard and promote the welfare of children, young people, and vulnerable adults. Our commitment to safeguarding reflects statutory responsibilities, government guidance and complies with best practice requirements. In summary we:

- Recognise the welfare of children, young people, and vulnerable adults is paramount in all the work we do and in all the decisions we take.
- Are committed to the welfare of all children, young people, and vulnerable adults, regardless of age, disability, gender or gender reassignment, race, religion or belief, or sexual orientation and in the safeguarding of their equal right to protection from all types of harm or abuse.
- Recognise that some children, young people, and adults are additionally vulnerable because of the impact of previous experiences, their level of dependency, communication needs or other circumstances.
- Work in partnership with children, young people, their parents, carers, and other agencies in promoting their welfare.

In safeguarding children, young people, and vulnerable adults you can expect Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd to:

- Help you to be healthy.
- Support you to learn and grow.
- Help you to keep safe.

- Make you feel listened to and heard.
- Treat you with respect, dignity, and acceptance.

To enable us to achieve this, we will:

- Keep up-to-date records, including records of any safeguarding concerns.
- Only undertake work which we believe to be appropriate, ethical, and safe for the person.
- Ensure a confidential space to work on the understanding that should we have a safeguarding concern we are legally obliged to pass these concerns on to the appropriate authorities.
- Work in line with our safeguarding processes as detailed below.

Legal framework

This policy has been drawn up on the basis of legislation and guidance that seeks to protect children in England and Wales. A summary of the key legislation and guidance is available from www.nspcc.org.uk/childprotection.

Definitions

We use the following definitions in this policy:

In respect of children and young people:

The Children Act 1989 defines a ‘child’ as:

- Anyone who has not yet reached their 18th birthday, even if they are living independently, are a member of the armed forces, or is in hospital.

The Working Together to Safeguard Children 2018 defines ‘safeguarding’ as:

- Protecting children from maltreatment.
- Preventing impairment of children’s health or development.
- Ensuring that children are growing up in circumstances consistent with the provision of safe and effective care.
- Taking action to enable all children to have the best outcomes.

In respect of adults:

The Care Act (s.2) defines an ‘adult’ as:

- A person aged 18 or over.

The Care Act 2014 (s.42) defines ‘adults at risk of abuse or neglect’ as someone who:

- Has needs for care and support (whether or not the authority is meeting any of those needs).
- Is experiencing, or is at risk of, abuse or neglect.
- As a result of those needs, is unable to protect himself, herself (or their self), against the abuse or neglect or the risk of it.

In respect to inter-relational risk:

We recognise that children, young people, and adults may have vulnerabilities which are otherwise hidden or changeable. For example, those with caring responsibilities or those exposed to domestic abuse.

We use the definition of domestic abuse as provided in the Domestic Abuse Act 2021 (s.1):

- Behaviour of a person (‘A’) towards another person (‘B’) is ‘domestic abuse’ if –

Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd (t/a Palmer & Palmer Psychology Services)
Registered Company (14602051)

- A and B are each aged 16 or over and are personally connected to each other.
- The behaviour is abusive.
- Behaviour is 'abusive' if it consists of any of the following –
 - Physical or sexual abuse.
 - Violent or threatening behaviour.
 - Controlling or coercive behaviour.
 - Economic abuse.
 - Psychological, emotional, or other abuse.

And it does not matter whether the behaviour consists of a single incident or a course of conduct.

- A's behaviour may be behaviour 'towards' B despite the fact that it consists of conduct directed at another person (for example, B's child).

In respect to children (defined by the Act as a 'person under the age of 18'), the Act (s.3):

- Any reference in this Act to a victim of domestic abuse includes reference to a child who –
 - Sees or hears, or experiences the effects of, the abuse.
 - Is related to A or B.
- A child is related to a person for the purposes of subsection (2) if –
 - The person is a parent of, or has parental responsibility for, the child.
 - The child and the person are relatives.

In respect to 'Prevent Duty':

There are certain conditions under which we have a 'Prevent Duty' (see below). In these circumstances, the following definitions are used:

- Radicalisation: The process through which a person comes to support or be involved in extremist ideologies. A person may get drawn into acts or threats or terrorism. In and of itself, radicalisation is a form of harm.
- Extremism: The vocal or active opposition to fundamental British values, including democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, and mutual respect and tolerance of different faiths and beliefs. There is typically a political or religious basis and is akin to fanaticism.
- Terrorism: The unlawful use or threat of use of violence and intimidation, particularly targeted at civilians in the pursuit of extreme political or religious aims.

These terms relate to any person or people, regardless of any other personal characteristic or membership (or not) to any community group.

The Prevent Duty

Some organisations in England, Scotland and Wales have a duty, as a specified authority under the Counterterrorism and Security Act 2015 (s.26), to identify vulnerable children and young people and prevent them from being drawn into radicalism, extremism, and terrorism. This is known as the Prevent Duty. These organisations include:

- Schools.
- Registered childcare providers.
- Local authorities.
- Police.
- Prisons and probation services.

- NHS trusts and foundations.

Other organisations may also have Prevent Duties if they perform delegated local authority functions.

Children can be exposed to different views and receive information from various sources. Some of these views may be considered radical or extreme.

We may have a Prevent Duty in certain circumstances. Depending on the context, we may in and of itself consider certain views, acts, or threats of acts, to fundamentally be a safeguarding duty of care.

What we mean by abuse and neglect:

Children, young people, and adults may be vulnerable to neglect, abuse, or exploitation from within their family and from individuals or organisations they come across in their daily lives. There are three main categories of abuse, namely: sexual, physical, emotional. In addition to neglect. It is important to be aware of more specific types of abuse and neglect that fall within these categories, including:

- Bullying, cyberbullying, and online abuse.
- Sexual and criminal exploitation, trafficking, and slavery.
- Domestic abuse (uni- or multi-directional and (inter-)generational).
- Female genital mutilation.
- Historical abuse or neglect.
- Radicalisation and extremism (see Counterterrorism and Security Act 2015, s.26).

This is not an exhaustive list and is provided for illustrative purposes only.

We use the above definitions when referring to ‘vulnerable adults’ in this policy and considering the protection of children and young people.

Recording and Record Keeping:

A written record must be kept about any concern regarding a child, young person, or vulnerable adult where safeguarding concerns are observed or suspected. This must include details of the person involved, the nature of the concern and the actions taken, decision made and why they were made. Any such records are kept in addition to standard session notes.

All records will be signed and dated. All records will be securely and confidentially stored in line with General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR).

Confidentiality and Information Sharing

Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd expects all employees, volunteers, and trustees to maintain confidentiality. Information will only be shared in line with the General Data Protection Regulations \(GDPR\) and Data Protection (see separate policies on how we manage your data).

However, information must be shared with the relevant authority if a child, young person, or vulnerable adult is deemed to be at risk of harm. Where this person is in immediate danger, or a crime has been committed, we are required to report the matter to the police.

In broad terms, information sharing may take place where:

- a. You tell us something that puts you or someone else at risk of harm.
- b. We become aware, from a third party, that you or others may be at risk of harm.
- c. An accumulation of information indicates you or others may be at risk of harm.
- d. We are otherwise directed to release our records by appropriately appointed authorities (e.g., by Court Order, the Police, or similar).

Training and Awareness:

Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd will ensure an appropriate level of safeguarding training is available to its Trustees, Employees, Volunteers, and any relevant persons linked to the organisation who requires it (e.g., contractors).

For all employees who are working or volunteering with children or vulnerable adults, this requires them as a minimum to have awareness training that enables them to:

- Understand what safeguarding is and their role in safeguarding children, young people, and adults.
- Recognise a child, young person, and adult's potentially need of safeguarding and act.
- Understand how to report a safeguarding concern.
- Understand dignity and respect when working with children, young people, and vulnerable adults.
- Have knowledge of this Safeguarding Policy and our policies which cover data protection.

Safe Recruitment & Selection:

Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd are committed to safe employment and safe recruitment practices, that reduce the risk of harm to children, young people, and vulnerable adults from people unsuitable to work with them or have contact with them.

All members of our workforce have an Enhanced Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) Certificate. All members must use the DBS update service which allows relevant parties to check the person's DBS status.

Social Media:

Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd may, from time to time, use social media now or in the future. However, all members are expected to follow the British Psychological Societies guidance on social media use. This can be found here:

www.bps.org.uk/guideline/supplementary-guidance-use-social-media

Use of Mobile Phones and other Digital Technology:

Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd do not permit any Director, Employee, or Associate to use mobile phones or other digital technology to:

- Photograph any child, young person, vulnerable adult, or other person or place.
- Video record any child, young person, vulnerable adult, or other person or place.
- Post on any social media platform available now or that might become available in the future, about any child, young person, vulnerable adult, or other person or place with which they have come into contact with whilst performing business on behalf of Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd.
- Audio record any child, young person, vulnerable adult, or other person or place.
- To use any other mobile device or digital technology to record or store photographs, video recordings, social media posts, and audio recordings of any child, young person, vulnerable adult, or other person or place with which they have come into contact with whilst performing business on behalf of Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd.
- Any or all parts of the above will be treated as an exception where explicit written and signed consent of the person and their legal guardian (where the person is under 18 years old) has been obtained. This will clearly identify:
 - What media will be captured.
 - By what means the media will be captured by.
 - How that media will be used.
 - How that media will be stored and disposed of.

- How the person and/or their legal guardian can withdraw consent and any limitations to that consent, or any confidentiality promise that is given.
- The person or their legal guardian will be provided with our data protection and privacy policies at the time they are asked to formalise their consent.

Whistleblowing:

It is important that people within Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd have the confidence to come forward to speak or act if they are unhappy with anything. Whistle blowing occurs when a person raises a concern about dangerous or illegal activity, or any wrongdoing within their organisation. This includes concerns about another employee or volunteer. There is also a requirement by Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd to protect whistle-blowers. Our colleagues will follow guidance set by the British Psychology Society (BPS) and Health and Care Professions Council (HCPC), as well as any legal requirements and official guidance on whistleblowing.

Protecting our team:

Nobody goes to work to be abused, insulted, or attacked. Whilst we appreciate there will be many situations where emotions are running high, there is never a reason for one person to act in a way that may cause alarm, distress, or harm to a health and care professional who is trying to help. We will always treat our clients and others with respect. We therefore ask you do the same.

We also understand that, from time to time, words and actions can occur without intention to cause alarm, distress, or harm. This is why our team, and associates will normally reflect back to you, in the first instance, that your words or actions are problematic. However, we take a zero-tolerance approach to any form of abuse towards any member of our team, contractors, partners, or agents working with or on our behalf. In this respect, the following applies unilaterally for all those working with, as part of, or on our behalf:

- Home visits are only permitted in exceptional circumstances. Where such lone working takes place, the team member must make at least one other team member (known as a 'Lone Worker Angel') aware of their whereabouts, proposed visit times, purpose of visit, and expected duration. The person undertaking the home visit must:

- Phone the Lone Worker Angel to let them know the session is over running and provide an estimated extension duration.
 - Allow their Lone Worker Angel to access their 'find my' function on their digital device. The Lone Worker Angel will then carry out remote checks if they have not heard from the person within 10 minutes of their expected end time.
 - At 15 minutes, the Lone Worker Angel will phone the person. If there is no answer, the Lone Worker Angel will make another call no more than five minutes later. If there is still no response, the Lone Worker Angel will make a report to the police to do a welfare check.
- We may refuse to work with you if:
 - You make any threats or intimidate any of our team members or associates. Or, it comes to our attention that you have a history of threatening, abusive, or intimidating behaviour towards other health and care professionals.
 - You express views which could be considered derogatory to others based on their race, religion, sexual orientation, gender, or other characteristic and that could be considered offensive or abusive towards our team members, other service users, or the general public. In these cases, we will draw your attention to the expression in the first instance, remind you in the second instance, and bring our work to an end on the third occasion. We reserve the right, however, to immediately cease working with you if our team member(s) deem it necessary, at any time.
 - Any act or threat of an act of violence, either physical or verbal. Or expressed opinions which are, or could be perceived as, inflammatory, slanderous, defamatory, insulting, or degrading to a third party. If these opinions are of a serious nature, but have not been expressed to a third party, our team member may choose to cease our contract with you.

Palmer and Palmer Psychology Ltd (t/a Palmer & Palmer Psychology Services)
Registered Company (14602051)

In the case of any safeguarding event, including against our team members, you will remain liable for all associated fees and costs per our Terms and Conditions. We may also take further action, including, but not limited to:

- The shortening or cancellation of part or all remaining services originally contracted with you.
- A partial or complete ban on accessing our services in the future.
- Referral or report to external agencies, which may include the police, social care, or other relevant agent.
- Remedial action such as bringing a civil claim for costs due, for example, as a result of infringement, physical or emotional harm, any loss or reputational damage caused to our business, Directors, employees, contractors, and any other individual or organisation we may work with from time to time, as a result of your actions, whether directly or indirectly caused.
